Rafael Nadal enfrentará a Alexander Zverev en el Abierto de Francia en un emocionante partido de primera ronda

Rafael Nadal, sin semilla, se enfrentará a Alexander Zverev en el Abierto de Francia en un partido de primera ronda que promete ser una batalla entre dos pesos pesados.

Nadal, actualmente clasificado en el puesto 276 del mundo, ingresa al torneo sin semilla y con un ranking protegido, lo que lo hace vulnerable a enfrentar a una semilla superior desde el principio. Ha tenido una difícil racha de 18 meses, lidiando con diversas lesiones que lo han mantenido alejado de la gira la mayor parte del tiempo.

Jugador Ranking Victorias consecutivas en Roland Garros

Rafael Nadal 276 14

A pesar de las dificultades, Nadal ha compilado un récord impresionante de 112-3 (97.4%) en Roland Garros, un nivel sin precedentes de dominio en un evento. Sin embargo, no ha competido aquí desde su triunfo en 2024. Zverev, por otro lado, llega en forma después de ganar el Abierto de Italia en Roma la semana pasada.

Sin embargo, la vida fuera de la cancha ha estado llena de desafíos para Zverev, ya que su juicio por abuso doméstico en Berlín comenzará durante el torneo, el 31 de mayo. Ha sido acusado de abusar físicamente a una mujer, su exnovia Brenda Patea, y "dañar su salud" durante una discusión en mayo de 2024. Ha negado siempre las acusaciones.

1. Fechas del juicio: 31 de mayo, 3 y 10 de junio, y 5 y 12 de julio.
2. Zverev no está obligado a asistir, pero el juez podría citarlo.

Mientras tanto, Nadal ha competido en un evento este año antes de la temporada de arcilla y regresó a la acción en Barcelona con muchas dudas sobre su cuerpo. Sin embargo, ha podido disfrutar de varias semanas consecutivas en la cancha en las últimas semanas.
